Compassionate professionals who care

We recruit and select individuals specifically suited to be security guards in a healthcare setting. That means hiring people who are empathetic with a desire to help others, who work well under stress, and have strong communication skills. They must also be physically and mentally able to adapt to challenging and rapidly changing environments.

Staff specially trained to work in hospital and clinical environments

Once personnel join our team, they receive specialized training to prepare them to work effectively in healthcare environments, as these individuals are vital to securing your operations. They are thoroughly trained to protect not only the clinical facilities but also the staff, patients and visitors. Our training also prepares them to keep prescription medicines secured and medical information confidential.

Security experts who are also active members of the healthcare security community

Several members of our team have decades of experience in the healthcare sector, as respected and seasoned security professionals. This experience includes strong involvement in industry associations, such as the International Association for Healthcare Security & Safety (IAHSS).
